WhatsApp Messenger WhatsApp is a cross-platform instant messaging app for smartphones. The app is owned by Facebook and operates on the proprietary WhatsApp platform. The app features end-to-end encryption, with all data being sent in clear text. The app is free and is one of the most widely used cross-platform instant messaging applications. It was first released in February 2009 and was founded by Jan Koum, Dave Morin, and Brian Acton.

WhatsApp uses less data than messaging apps like iMessage, and the app is not available in all countries because of a temporary removal from app stores in India. WhatsApp is also sometimes blocked in countries such as Egypt and Iran, and the service recently started reverting back to older username and password authentication methods in these countries. The app is popular in many countries around the world, with 450 million monthly active users. The app's first feature was not available in the app store version, since the app's developer, Jan Koum, was running out of his free user quota on Apple's app store. Originally,
