On my computer, I have a fairly complete collection of Photoshop tutorial videos with additional images and a special-effects project to show how to create some interesting effects using Photoshop. You can find them for free on the Internet. Working with Photoshop Photoshop is the dominant tool on the Adobe Creative Suite stack of programs for most design tasks. I cover the workflows and features of Photoshop in Chapters 9 and 18. You may use other tools for some of your photo editing, but Photoshop is certainly a must-have for your photo editing. Each Photoshop action is saved as a project to give you a place to start from to save your time. You have a project for yourself, of course, but you also have projects for other people. If you share projects on a social media site, you can even create projects for coworkers. To start a new project, choose File⇒New to open the Photoshop New dialog box, as shown in Figure 6-1.

Figure 6-1: Select New to start a new project. Photoshop needs to be running when you save a project, so don't worry about being prompted. Photoshop launches automatically when you create a project. Just save it using the File⇒Save As dialog box and give it a proper name. Creating a Photoshop Action A Photoshop action is a step in a Photoshop project. An action performs one task, such as reducing the size of the image, removing a portion of the image, and so on. A photo editor has several actions available: Auto-Save: You can save a Photoshop project at any time by using the File⇒Auto-Save option. New: When you create a project, you also create a new, blank project. When you are creating a new project, Photoshop saves a copy of your project in the same location in which you saved the New project. Rename: When you save a project, you can rename the project by typing a new name in the Rename box. The current name is automatically saved as well. Open: Opens the active image with the settings you have saved. You can also open any image file with the Open dialog box. Zoom: You can zoom to any size using the Zoom dialog box.

Activating an action by clicking the Action drop-down menu is a quick way to create a project from a selection that you make by using the Selection tool, as shown in Figure

Windows - How to install Adobe Photoshop Elements You must install both Photoshop Elements and Photoshop together. You should download the software from a reliable source and install the program to a freshly formatted disk. This will prevent the possibility of installing unwanted software. For more information on Windows 10 installation visit our post: Windows 10 install guide. If you have Windows 7, you must install the Photoshop Elements installer from the Microsoft website. Your system must be capable of running.msi (Microsoft Installer) files. You should make sure you have the Microsoft Visual C++ 2008 Runtime. Please go to this article: How to install Visual C++ 2008 Runtime The MSi installer can be very large and is likely to take a long time to download. You should also run it in offline mode. Mac OSX - How to install Adobe Photoshop Elements For Mac OSX 10.5 through 10.11, follow these steps: Download the installer from the Adobe website. Open the file and double click on the.mpkg file. Follow the directions in the installer. Select the following: Once the installation has finished, please close the installer. Open Photoshop Elements and you are ready to go. You may also need to install a graphics library. You should do this before installing Elements to make the installation process more convenient. Again, the very same process will work for any version of Mac OSX. Mac OSX 64 bit users should check that the library can be found here: You should run Photoshop with the following command.

/Applications/Adobe Photoshop Elements/
Elements.app/Contents/MacOS/psedit

Linux - How to install Adobe Photoshop Elements Linux users should use the gdebi package installer to install the Linux version. You will need a .deb file containing the installer. It can be obtained from the following page: You can download the file and save it to a folder on your hard drive. Open the file using a file manager such as File Manager or Nautilus. Click and drag the .deb file into Nautilus. If you want to make sure you have the correct file, right-click and open the file in a text editor such as Notepad. The file should be cut down to the following: Open Nautilus again.

Double click on the file and it will open a window. Click Install Package. You can now close the text editor if you

Q: facebook scraper wont work for bootstrap modal popup I'm trying to scrape values from my facebook page. my current code is working for http site. but not for bootstrap modal. how to scrape it with bootstrap modal open? any idea how to make facebook scraper for bootstrap modal open. Thanks.

A: The facebook dev pipeline say this about bootstrap modal dialog - If you are using the Bootstrap modal, then the modal plugin is mixing with your request and we can only make API requests from the popup if you prevent this behavior by creating your own dialog (see more details here You need not add any additional approach to scrape facebook details if you don't want to display it as a modal dialog. 278 So.2d 556 (1973) T. Share this with UK manufacturing bosses have urged the government to push ahead with its industrial strategy, warning that too many key measures are only being discussed. The group, which represents companies with at least 250 employees in the UK, has urged the government to increase investment in engineering and other vital skills in the UK. Under the current government's plans, announced in 2011, the country is set to become a 'world leader' in the production of goods by 2020. The strategy focuses on boosting exports and promoting skills to ensure the UK keeps a competitive edge. While the Industrial Strategy is regarded as a success to date in terms of the introduction of the Quality and Innovation Partnership and the Skills Investment Fund, it is not yet clear whether these two measures alone are enough to retain the UK's position as one of the leading countries in the world. Manufacturing bosses say that they are particularly concerned that the government is only now focusing on providing more technical training at undergraduate level. The group says that it is increasingly common for young engineers to work in small firms or on their own accounts, rather than in the large manufacturing companies that have traditionally provided the most job opportunities. Britain on course to overtake Germany as world's best train maker They are concerned that more money will not be enough to ensure that there are enough engineers on the market to meet the needs of industry. Jayne Smith, vice-chair of the BMA, which represents the BAME group, said: 'Too many key elements of the government's strategy are only being discussed. 'The new apprenticeship levy - a
