In this story centered game, Kara is a young woman who was wrongfully accused of killing her father. As a result, her life changed entirely and she lost her ability to use the powers of the elements. Nevertheless, she carries deep feelings of guilt in her heart and resents the world. Under these circumstances, she is drawn to find her way across a mysterious land which is inhabited by strange and different people. In this world, she will face many challenges, puzzles, and puzzles, accompanied by a small spirit named Ami. You will need to solve puzzles with the use of various elements (fire, water, wind, and earth). By manipulating the elements, you will be able to discover the mysteries of this land and Kara's back story. Kara's journey will begin from the snowy land of Fira. In order to get to the start point, Kara will need to solve puzzles based on the elements of earth, air, fire, and water. Earth Element: Create bridges with stones or built staircases with stones and gravel. Air Element: Build fences, so that the terrain can be used as a passage for other players to cross the land. Fire Element: Use fire to melt stones or burn forests. Water Element: Build dams, water towers, or repair the rivers, so that other players can pass over. You may also recruit the help of the small spirit, Ami, who will assist you in unlocking her backstory. Explore the land and try to find the pieces of puzzle that Kara might be missing. Feel free to talk to the people who live there.

WARNING: VR can be a bit scary. So as not to make you jump straight in, take it slow! Press X and W, Arrow Keys to move. Type A to attack. Z to jump. Here's the storyline: In a quiet coastal town, urban explorer "Kaz" (the playable character) arrives. The night before he was a London-based CEO of some kind of security service company but has left his job with just three days before his vacation ends. He had a drink or two the previous night and got a bit drunk and was walking back home along the boardwalk, when his apartment was breached and he saw the small bag of money and the mysterious letter on the bed. He takes everything and hides it in his flat. What he did not expect, was a knock at the door and a friendly invitation to come with him... Only that we are receiving this broadcast because someone found a pattern and believes it signals the work of a future author. And we have to break the code of this message as it is being transmitted, because if we don't, the future will not arrive as we know it." Could the US military have done more to avert the attack? Just over two weeks ago, in an unprecedented moment of electoral democracy in Russia, tens of thousands of opposition supporters took to the streets in Moscow and other major Russian cities in a massive show of defiance against Vladimir Putin. They gathered in the heart of Russia's capital to take to the streets for the first time in years, after three months of anti-government rallies in Moscow and elsewhere had been violently put down by Russian riot police. The numbers are startling: nearly 30,000 in Moscow alone, with another 30,000 in St Petersburg, among a total of approximately 80,000 protesters across the country. This is the largest street protest Russia has seen in decades. On Saturday, two weeks on, the government crackdown continued. In a matter of days, police have mounted three raids against the offices of the newly-formed civil campaign group, BandyLight, which is gathering together the leaked emails of Russians with Kremlin connections to shed light on fraud and abuse in the Duma elections earlier this year. A further five people have been arrested, including the co-founders of BandyLight, who, along with several other activists, are now facing up to 10 years in prison. The government has responded by calling the movement a group of "foreign spies"

By TemporaryApparition Watch 24 Favourites 2 Comments 5K Views dawnplc: I have started to think about what not to work on to finish as others suggest (I think weeks? 2 months?), so now, I will focus on something completely different to keep us making games alive. This game is a conceptual one that revolves around a plot of someone creating an ork to become a hero so he can avoid being killed by the other races by bending the gap between Orcs and Humans to make us think he is one of them. Now, this is rare and the character creator is pretty poor, but I will make this game a multiverse one, where players can choose their own world and race, choosing from a variety of races (Humans, elves, dwarves, orcs, etc.) and make a hero for themselves if they like. They can be good or bad and make their own conflict that is not exactly the same between these races, but their conflicts are juxtaposed. We will play the game on the tutorial world where the tutorial will explain what is going on and give us examples of how the tutorial will work and how the AI will interact with it, etc. I will most likely make the first world were the tutorial explains what the world is and includes a random selection for the world itself. They will choose the race, start with a small amount of experience (or an amount that varies) then discover and meet other races. If they encounter one of their own races, they will try to have some interaction with them and ask questions. This is to create an authentic drama for this game and for the multiverse. I will try to keep in mind the request of not making or RPGs with developing a character but everything else being about a person. I will also take a close look at old man drinking game, which is where there is dialogue but it happens when someone is drunk. Although we can argue where a character is drunk, it still may feel real, so this will be a simpler way to have a very exaggerated performance for such. In either case, the game can be played at the tutorial if you would like to, but I will probably not make both of them unless, for some reason that will be mentioned later, I keep them both. Thank you. IMAGE DETAILS

Ask HN: US Visa for non-citizens? - R0b0t1 It seems non-citizens in the US can't get a visa to enter the country. I am Canadian, and I have never wanted to move here. And I'm not planning to stay long term. But will I eventually need a visa to enter the US? I know they get tired of the red tape, and I know there is some provision for non-citizens, but it seems to be hard to understand. Anyone have a direction to good documentation on this? I looked at 645 non-citizens.gov, and the information there seemed to be wibbly wobbly. ===== mjhea0 Try the 'googles' and see what comes up, I had the same question earlier today.
