The races of the world of the Tiny Tales are easily divided by their differences in features such as appearance, physiology, biology, and lifestyle. These physical differences also have implications for how the characters use their limbs, resulting in them having varying walking styles. Below is a detailed list of each species' anatomy, divided by their walking style: - Orcs: Swollen eyes, bulky, and largely lacking in grace when it comes to how they walk. - Kobolds: Slender and quick, with a low profile when they walk. - Nagas: Loose and lithe in appearance, they have a fluid gait with a slightly crouched posture. - Charades: Thick-limbed, their heads protrude from their shoulders, and while not visibly graceful, are able to be quite nimble, rolling their bulky appendages. - Humanoids: Naturally thin, their stature is slight but this does not prevent their legs from being bent downwards during their gait. - Slender: A humanoid species in which the body and feet resemble those of a human but with smaller, more slender limbs. - Shell creatures: Slightly obese and short-limbed, their bodies can be relatively small but their legs and arms can be quite thick and muscular. While at rest, their legs are bent at the knee so that their body is hunched. - Human-like: Tall, thin, and bulky, they possess a robust and heavily muscled upper body. * Use of the above description within the game itself is permissible, and is also deemed to be an accurate and faithful representation of the species. * Images of the orcs and humanoids are real game sprites re-used. All other creatures are fictional stock character sprites. * No part of this pack may be used without permission from the copyright holder. * This pack is for use in RPG Maker series. * You may not use my sprites within other games - You may not use my sprites without permission! * This pack is for use in commercial projects. * If you need to use any information within my sprites in-game, please email me, and I can send you a copy of the permission I granted. * There are NO SLAP GAMES in this pack! * This pack is free to use for private projects and modification of other packs, but your work should be posted on the Internet under the name of the creator. * You can buy additional packs, or create your own,

Story: Tiny Tales Battlers is a brand new story for RPG Maker series. Your character will once again be living happily along a simple life in the countryside, content as he is to fishing and farming with his sister. His peaceful life will be changed when he is on a quest to defeat a series of evil beasts, usually consisting of a dragon and a party of wimpy toad-like creatures. * Lore: "You stumbled upon a wooded area in a secluded village. A stench of burning wood and sulfur hung in the air. The plants surrounding the place had withered and some of them had even been eaten! One of the trees was covered with a swarm of nocturnal insects." "There was no one living here. No people, no buildings. Just a ruined village." --- Fantasy RPG, action RPG, adventure, monster, base game. From the 3D game to 2D game, regardless of your background, this game is yours.Q: Line spacing in a multi-line paragraph I'd like to write a document that has, for example, "Some text" on the first line, and then some bigger words on the next line, like this: Some text some bigger words I'd like to write it in such a way that it's obvious that the lines have different widths. Is it even possible in LaTeX? (Ideally the word-wrap features would help as well). A: An easy method: `\documentclass{article}`
some bigger words `}}` `\end{document}` It does not require any additional packages to achieve what you want and it works within the default text width. If you want something which behaves different for lines, then the `adjustbox` package is a good one, but it's a bit of a pain to use:
`\documentclass{article}` `\usepackage{adjustbox}` `\begin{document}` `ull\vfill\small\hspace{-\parindent}\em\raggedright` `\adjustbox{linespace=0.6em}{` Some text some bigger words `}`
`\end{document}` A: You can load the packages `geometry`
