[Back to the Top of the Page] What is AutoCAD, and why is it used? AutoCAD is a desktop CAD program, used by architects, engineers, drafters, planners, and anyone else who needs to create 2D and 3D drawings and designs. AutoCAD has software that supports the production of most 2D and 3D drawings in the following areas: Production of architectural and engineering drawings; Design and visualization of mechanical, civil, and electrical (MCE) designs; The following sections describe the different features of AutoCAD. How do I choose between AutoCAD and AutoCAD LT?

AutoCAD and AutoCAD LT are similar. They both include the same drawing tools and basic commands, but AutoCAD LT is designed primarily for use with AutoCAD Viewer, the AutoCAD replacement for Microstation, and can also be used to plot functions, view or measure properties, run reports, or view drawings from the command line. You can also compare both AutoCAD and AutoCAD LT for Windows on the following article. How do I choose between AutoCAD and AutoCAD LT for Windows? AutoCAD LT for Windows, like AutoCAD LT, is a complete and fully compatible desktop version of AutoCAD. However, this version is optimized for the use with AutoCAD Viewer, the AutoCAD replacement for Microstation, as well as Plotters and Plotter printers. AutoCAD LT also includes tools for converting drawings to PDF, PDF/X, and DXF. AutoCAD LT for Windows is also fully compatible with all of the latest AutoCAD versions. The latest version of AutoCAD LT for Windows, Release 16, is now available on Autodesk's website. This version is also available on DVD. [Back to the Top of the Page] AutoCAD basics AutoCAD is a powerful, flexible, and robust commercial CAD software program that includes over 100 features for architectural, engineering, and construction drafting. AutoCAD includes: Basic drawing tools; Modern command language; Plotters and Plotter printers; AutoCAD LT, AutoCAD LT for Windows, and AutoCAD LT for mobile; User documentation; Batch processing; Drawing

I was approached by a national company who are providing an initial buy of US$2million, which they intend to keep back and push the price up to between US$2.5m to US$3.5m. The main argument for the price hike is that the property is within easy walking distance to both a park and underground train station, but I am looking at the opportunity and I'm not so sure that the price isn't too high. A deal is already done and I have an option to back out, but they are "in a hurry" to get the deal done. The property is next to a large church, and a lot of other developments, including US$8m+ commercial units. The surrounding streets have also been very recently developed, with many US$1m+ condos and shops. The area isn't that big, but it has a very interesting character and I'd love to know what you think. I am asking for honest opinion from you all, because I don't want to make a bad deal. Thanks [edit] Got back from a trip to Hong Kong and came back and realised I had left the phone on vibrate, so have just got back online and found the thread. Re: International Property Offer - need some advice Yes, I'm not saying that it's not a good deal. The closest parallel for such a deal I can think of is when someone sells a property for a few times the figure that it's sold for, expecting the price to go up again. But they need to give you a second chance to catch it. Normally, if you are not happy with the deal, you should be able to ca3bfb1094
