Glenn F. Moran Glenn Frank Moran (born August 30, 1951) is an American biochemist who is the Francis M. A. Fife Professor of Biochemistry at the University of California, Berkeley. He is best known for his work in molecular pharmacology and chemistry of ion channels, as well as on the neurobiology and chemistry of apoplast and plasma membrane channels. Education Moran received a B.S. degree in chemistry and biochemistry from George Washington University and an M.S. degree in pharmaceutical chemistry from the University of Washington, and a Ph.D. degree in pharmacology from the University of Southern California. Research Moran has established a new research field in the field of biochemical ion channels. In his laboratory, he created and characterized several groups of non-voltage dependent and voltage-dependent cation channels in cultured cell lines. In the 1980s he was able to clone the first Na+ channel and the first K+ channel from various tissues. The cloned potassium channels are named KCNQ1, KCNQ2 and KCNQ4 and are prototypes for KCNQ subtypes, including the hERG channel which gives rise to the EKG and is the most studied channel on the market for
