“Our gameplay engine has been re-engineered to support this level of precision in the motion capture of individual players,” said Carl Ebeling, Creative Director at EA SPORTS. “Together with our world-class gameplay engine, HyperMotion Technology is just another example of how we’re delivering exceptional gameplay and authentic player movement.” Unlike the series’ previous titles, FIFA 18 and FIFA 19, FIFA 22 introduces “Sprinting.” This new movement feature allows FIFA 22 players to sprint and sprint faster, as well as exert more control over the direction they sprint in. Both players and officials can sprint and boost to great effect. “We’ve spent a lot of time working closely with our players to make sure we’ve created a game that’s as authentic as possible,” said Oliver Halberstadt, FIFA Lead Designer. “Sprinting is another example of how we’ve improved the movement system, but also given players the opportunity to make plays that have been absent in the series.” Upgrades to Player Thinking The attention to detail throughout FIFA 22 allows players to think on the pitch, with enhanced AI, dedicated crowd, and real-life player thinking incorporated into the game. Add in the new Sprinting, as well as ability to sprint in the opposition team’s half, and FIFA 22 is as immersive and realistic as any title in the series. Every decision on the pitch is made with intelligence and depth, taking into account opposition, player personality and team tactical needs. “Advanced AI, crowd and player thinking are all key elements of FIFA this year,” said Aaron Montanari, Co-Studio Head of the FIFA team. “Each year we try and push the boundaries of what’s possible for the player, and on that note we have really pushed the boundaries in how players think in the tactics and strategy.” FIFA 22 sets the tone for a new generation of soccer, with a new player model that feels as real as ever, an all-new Create-a-Player mode, and a powerful FIFA Ultimate Team. Key Features: HyperMotion Technology – FIFA 22 introduces “HyperMotion Technology” to the FIFA series, which captures the movement data of 22 real-life players during an intense match in real-time. FIFA is known throughout the world as the pinnacle of professional football videogames. FIFA 19 features unique improvements and innovations that aim to increase the authenticity of gameplay, with real-world data such as player weight and speed all powering the physics of players and the ball. It also introduces new gameplay elements and additional visuals that bring the game closer to the real thing. For the first time, every pitch on all game modes is 360 degrees. For the first time, the match is fully immersive, with fans able to jump on to the pitch and join in the action. With a dedicated animation team, the game also adds a host of new on-pitch animations that bring the sport to life like never before. FIFA 19 Crushing Opponents With the Power of the Dash Authenticity is an important principle for EA SPORTS FIFA, and this year there are multiple innovations that aim to bring the game closer to the real thing. Central to this new focus is the Dash, a new short-distance sprinting technique which wearers of special suits can use to outrun opponents. It was a new feature to real-world football and it has arrived in FIFA 19 with a twist. Players can now choose how to use their Dash. Now, in addition to being uncontrollable, the Dash’s speed is under players’ control. A special dash movement button is mapped to the B button for easy access. They can call upon the Dash or skip it entirely. The Dash now comes with a delay and players can choose whether to go into a jammer mode, where they earn rewards for sprinting slowly. A proper rotational force will also power the Dash, adding a new dimension to players’ abilities. The experience can be turned on or off in the game settings. The first trailer released for FIFA 19 was the announcement that the Dash would be returning. New Boots and Bags Will Make You Stand Out From The Crowd Another focus of FIFA 19 is making players feel more connected to the pitch. In this year’s game, defenders can no longer rely on traditional boots with spiked soles. Players will instead be given new boots and boots with interchangeable soles, with shoes available for every player, including goalkeepers. Additionally, goalkeepers will be given new goalkeeper gloves to give them all-round mobility and adaptability. Goalkeepers will also have a bigger chest to help them gain more of an advantage in mid-air, while on the ground they will also gain an improved defensive ability. Every player has received new bc9d6d6daa
