Playable characters:

THE NEW FANTASY ACTION RPG has three playable characters (Theodora, Concordia, and Tarnished) that each have their own play style. These character classes are balanced well and enjoyable for players to experience. However, we will add other playable characters in subsequent versions.

For each playable character, there are three main character class-specific story arcs. By choosing an Arc for your character, you will receive an additional bonus to gain strength. As you play your Arc, your job will gradually shift towards a trait unique to your character class.

■Character Classes

Each of the three character classes have their own unique features and job preferences. However, throughout the campaign, their job roles will gradually shift to perform various roles based on the Arc they have chosen. The play style and job preferences of each class can be changed by using the character customization option. For details, please see on the Character Classes section below.

If you haven't heard about it before, it is pretty damn cool. We aren't really sure whether we want to join the beta-test or not, but we really want to experience an RPG and MOBA at the same time, so that should count for something. We however are still deciding on whether or not we should opt for the beta-test, but we will probably, lol, if for no other reason than we don't know what to expect from this type of game. We would really appreciate if you guys could, in the near future, please provide some information on why it is you are interested in joining the beta-test for the game. The best part is that it is still in its beta stage, so there is a good chance that we will still be able to join in on the fun and learn a lot, even if it does not count for anything in the end We are having to deal with some poor people, that use all of the sub-forums of this place just to advertise their own sub-forums, without actually providing any content themselves or for it, they simply use the forum to advertise their own websites, as if this forum were actually their own.Five of the most surprising discoveries of New Year's Day News2Share.
