Damage Dealers On Saturday, November 20, the BRS Annual Meeting will be at Boston University's Center for Urban Space Management (CUSM) in Washington Square. The afternoon program will feature our own Keith Wierzbicki (formerly of the NYC Department of Design and Construction and now with CUSM) talking about the craft of damage/restoration. He will be joined by several of the BRS Council's own damage/restoration practitioners, including Chris Pratt (BRS Council member and BSCG Director/Area Coordinator), Matthew Kerr (Boston Common Neighborhood Development Board), and Josh Hovey (former President of BRS and current Director of Business Recovery at Strong4In). After the introductory session, the damage/restoration panel will proceed to the University's Spaulding Commons where our damage/restoration practitioners will describe their work and give examples. There is a possibility of post-panels drinks and snacks with attendees. There will be a high-energy discussion of these common topics, along with many relevant/useful updates/information from the council members as well. Keith and members of the damage/restoration panel will continue to respond to email questions after the meeting. Participants will have the option of taking our workshop curriculum, or our one-day Introduction to Damage Handling for Complex Interventions course, which cover general damage handling and problem solving.
