I have tried a method by using the find and replace feature but it doesnt find the pattern required in this case and doesnt update anything. A: One way to do this is by using the Perl regular expression function. perl -pe "s/=/_/g" file The above command replaces any / with _ and deletes any backslashes \. Note that on a Mac you will need to use the perlbrew to load the latest version of Perl. The above command could fail if perlbrew does not have an updated version of perl. You can install perlbrew by running sudo perlbrew install A: sed -E "s|/|_|g" file -E option: to enable extended regular expression, -n flag: to disable printing the pattern space. This command will replace all / with _ and delete all \. A: sed's|/|_|g' /dev/null) Q: A simple chain rule question I'm having some trouble understanding how this simple chain rule can be derived. Let's say I have the function $f(x)=x^2$ and I have to calculate $f'(x)$. I have to start from $f(x)=x^2$, but I don't understand how it can be $f'(x)= 2 x$ without derivating first. Thanks in advance. A: Just ignore the " $f(x)=x^2$ " part and start from the original equation. $x^2 = x*x$. Apply the first identity to the second term and complete the square. That's how the derivative of a product/quadratic is generally derived. $f'(x)=2x =$
 $\frac{d}{dx}\left[x^2\right]=\frac{d}{dx}(x*x) = x*\frac{d}{dx}(x) + \frac{d}{dx}(x) * x$
 $f'(x) = x*\frac{d}{dx}(x) + \frac{d}{dx}(x) * x$
