2010a.[Investigation of the sexual abuse of a child by a dog bite]. The sexual abuse of a young girl by a dog has recently occurred in California. The authors report this case of contact sexual abuse for forensic medicolegal purpose. A five-year-old girl was brought in by her parents for examination of small vesiculobullous lesions on her perineum and pubis associated with vulva edema, as well as painful papulopustulonodular lesions located on the labia majora and in the genital and anal region. By physical examination, the girl presented a deep bruise of the perineal mucosa, two ulcerative lesions of the labia majora, edema of the vulva, an ecchymotic lesion on the gluteal region and a papule on the clitoris with blisters which had been previously damaged. The girl first experienced this kind of sexual abuse in January 1997. Several months later, she was bitten by a dog. Repeated penetration of the perineal area by the dog's muzzle could have led to the formation of superficial mucosal trauma. The perineal area constitutes a specific zone of potential injury by the muzzle
