finally and if you are an fbl newbie, consider what specific flybarless / flight controller system/s are being used in your area or flying club (local familiarity in other words). using a system that is popular in your area or club has the advantage of getting experienced setup/tuning help should you need it. this is the official page for the multi-station fbl training software product, barfly ultimate. this program helps train fbl flight with multi-station. with this software, you can even fly from a pair of joysticks simultaneously. with multi-station enabled, fbl flight becomes more realistic and fun. you can choose a precise flight pattern, and other different training methods that suit your flying style. you can also set the level of difficulty for the training. great for beginners, this software can also help you improve your flying skills. we have developed the barfly vbar, vbar neo, and ikon2. we will only offer fbl barrells that are compatible with the three models. the options to choose from are the vbar neo, ikon2, and vbar. we also offer the mikado mini, mikado stand-alone, and our skymax. we will ensure you of the best handling and durability for a fraction of the cost of other fbl units. cochrane: to add another perspective, here are some books that i've found most useful: barfly : a practical guide to flybarless aviation available from the official barfly website, barfly : the complete video tutorials this book was published by the folks behind barfly. it contains the video tutorials which are in the same style as "good morning barfly".

8).click the "bluetooth 'name'" to enter your settings window. you should now see a new window on the bluetooth device indicating that the mini kbar is now connected. you can also click "connect all" to pair everything automatically, or make sure everything is ok by clicking "test connect". 9).now click the settings button on the mini kbar (to the left of the app selector box). this will open up the main mini kbar settings. on the general page make sure the "bluetooth mode" is set to the the bluetooth dongle (which is the same as the "radio adapter mode"). i've had my mini for awhile now, flybarless setup is very simple, use your gps unit for initial calibration, then program that info into the setup box for the rest of your flybarless setup. from there you'll be set and can focus on fun! my mini came with the factory servo cable assembled as well as the microfiber e-pen, the stock size receiver, and the grinder (used to take the metal grommets out of the receiver). i ended up not needing the grinder so i did a few different things to save money: so in the end the fbl unit i ended up with was the mini, the microfiber receiver, the original stock receiver, and the stock cables. i used the microfiber receiver pads i had at home (see 2 above). i re-used the stock gyro cable and servo cable for my gyros, and i used some wire i had at home for the receiver leads. i never used the provided grinder, but i'm sure someone could have saved a few bucks by doing that. the mini kbar with v5.0 express software is an innovative product setting new standards for model helicopters in terms of flight performance and programming capacity. features : - easy start setup via pc or control panel - programming assistant (setup wizard): gets you ready for flight in 11 steps - fine adjustments can be done at the field in your transmitter (no pc necessary) - ready for online updates as they become available. 5ec8ef588b
