Q: How to draw a drop down list in iOS? I would like to create an interface that looks like the image below: I'm trying to find out how to do that on iOS, mainly so I can use it in Apple's SwiftUI project (Xcode 11). I've found many similar examples, but they all work with UITableView.

A: For iOS 14 and newer: Extensions for UITableView now lets you do this without having to break encapsulation of UIViewController. On the left side of your image, UITableViews have been redesigned to align with the rest of the new system. They now have additional API that can be used to manage the content that is in a section, including variable height rows and section headers.

extension UITableView { func insertNewRow(atIndex index: Int, after: UITableViewCell?) { insertRows(at:
```

[index], with:

```
[UITableViewRowAnimation.automatic.rawValue]) } func insertNewRow(atIndex index: Int, inSection section: Int, animated: Bool) { insertRows(at: [index], with:
[UITableViewRowAnimation 79a2804d6b
