What I'm trying to do is to replace every occurrence of a string between double quotes with a different string, for example "foo" with "baz", or foo1 with foobar. The problem is that what I want to replace is not between the quotes, but in that string. (I mean, I want to replace "foo" with "baz", but I don't want to replace the "foo" in "foo bar") I was trying to use String#replaceAll but it doesn't allow me to use a regex expression. So my question is, how can I use String#replaceAll with regex? A: Here's the key part: String regex = "foo"; String str = "foo bar"; String result = str.replaceAll("\"" + regex + "\"", "foobar"); // result == "foobar bar" Regex docs: Matches against a regular expression, and replaces the first matching group of that expression with a given string. Q: Detecting Window Manager Crash I know this question was asked a lot and I have already read a lot of posts but none of them worked for me. I need to implement this feature in my application. I am developing a 'Hotel Management' app. I save all the hotel objects in the sharedPreferences and restore them when the application is run. I need to detect the windows manager crash in my app. The problem is I don't know how to do that. I tried developing a wrapper class with
